RANSOM MONEY HELD READY

The News Review

By BRUCE CATTON

A PROPHET may be without honor in his own country, but he generally has a good deal of fun. When you set out to tell what things are going to be like two or three centuries hence, no one can possibly prove that you are wrong; and to talk without fear of contradiction is one of the greatest pleasures known to man.

Mother Confesses That Child Thrown Into White River

Violet Marie Cook Is Victim of Shocking Crime

YOUNG MAN SOUGHT

Newport Authorities Are Asked to Make an Arrest

JONESBORO.—(AP)—Deputy Sheriff W. C. Craig said Thursday that Mrs. Ethel Cook, 20, of Egypt, Ark., had made a signed statement saying that her 4-month-old daughter, Violet Marie, had been thrown into White river near Newport.

The statement said the lady was teased into the river by a man whose name officers declined to announce pending his arrest.

The deputy sheriff said that the statement followed an investigation which was launched when the young mother of three children returned to her home at Egypt without Violet Marie.

FERA Workers Are Asked to Register

Will Be Classified as to Occupation and Fitness

LITTLE ROCK.—All employable persons in Arkansas now on direct relief rolls must register with the U. S. Re-employment service county offices not later than June 10. W. R. Dyess, state relief administration director, said Thursday following receipt of instructions from Harry L. Hopkins, national FERA director.

The registration was directed so that employables may be classified as to occupation and fitness for work and thus be available for transfer to public and private employment.

Employables on the relief rolls who have already registered with the re-employment service are not required to re-register, Mr. Dyess explained. The re-employment service maintains offices in each of the 75 counties.

Mr. Dyess also said the order does not apply to persons classed as unemployables, the sick, aged and afflicted.

However timely as a warning all this may be, it might be just as much fun to write a similar prophecy based on optimism rather than pessimism.

Let us suppose, for instance, that we heed all the warnings we have been getting in recent years—warnings about soil conservation, industrial waste, social injustice, the need for rehousing, and so on; let us suppose that we manage to do all the things which it is evident today that we need to do, and put our national house in order.

What would the traveler of 2235 A. d. find then?

It makes an enchanting picture. We can see him visiting great cities that are free from slums, with every family occupying a clean, decent home and every child having access to grassy parks and groves for play; cities which manage to get along without unemployment or soup kitchens or poverty, governed as efficiently and sensibly as a school of technology, say, is governed today.

X X X
Beyond these cities our traveler would find the world's happiest and most prosperous farm lands. Where the land is tilled, it is green with growing crops, and the farmhouses and villages are both lovely to look at and comfortable to live in; where the land is not tilled it is park-like, reserved for enjoyment of all the people, who, by this time, have plenty of leisure to enjoy such things.

A prophecy built along these lines is quite a contrast with the one Mr. Tugwell put together; and the comforting part about it all is that it is quite as likely to come true as his.

And that, after all, is what makes the present, with all its problems, a good time to be alive. Our destiny is in our hands as never before.

If we run the risk, through blind news and greed, of making Mr. Tugwell's doleful forecast come true, we also have the chance—and, all in all, a better chance—of building a future brighter than anything we dream of today.

THE NEW DEAL IN WASHINGTON

—BY RODNEY DUTCHER—

WASHINGTON.—The army, which vies with the navy in encouraging glamorous martial stunts for the newsreels, balks at permitting reminders of war's horrors.

Seventy thousand World War photographs are locked in the steel filing cases of the Signal Corps. But when the Senate Munitions Committee decided it might be interesting to observe the effects of munitions—upon what some of its members sometimes grimly call the ultimate consumer—and sought the privilege of inspection, the War Department balked more violently than at any previous time in the investigation.

Secretary Borm wrote, with sufficient courtesy to annoy certain senators, that a "representative collection will be prepared" by army officers and brought to Capitol Hill by a captain.

The photos wouldn't be allowed out of his custody and couldn't be reproduced in any way—a provision by which Dorn speculated the possibility that the committee might present a potential supplement to emphasize its recommendations.

Dorn specified: "Pictures of the dead possible identification are not made available to scrutiny."

Protest may be made against this censorship—on the ground that the photos are public property.

Tribute Is Paid to World War Dead

Appropriate Ceremonies Over U. S. Memorial Day

By the Associated Press

The United States saluted its war dead Thursday.

Crippled veterans and carefree children took part in a poignant, alternatingly solemn and martial, spread from coast to coast.

The men in blue had the seats of honor, as they have had since Memorial Day was inaugurated in honor of their fallen Civil war comrades, but the seats were few in number.

Their places in parades, too, were given over almost entirely to veterans of the Spanish-American and World wars, the troops of today and patriotic organizations.

Timothy J. Creeden, 85, left for dead on a battlefield, was one of 20 survivors expected to march in Manhattan's parade of more than 20,000 persons. Altogether, 72,000 were entered in the ranks for the five New York borough parades.

President John J. Roosevelt joined in the observance at Washington, where a stand at the White House was provided for review of the annual parade there. The Arlington national cemetery, where lies the unknown soldier, was the scene of other ceremonies.

At Hardin, Mont., Indians and whites came together to dedicate a restructure at Custer national cemetery, where lie the bodies of United States troopers massacred with General George A. Custer at the battle of Little Big Horn.

Even the 4000 disabled veterans in government hospitals near New York paid tribute to the comrades they left overseas.

Army posts thundered 2-gun salutes and the navy lent the destroyer Badger to the Old Glory naval post of the American Legion for a service at sea.

The seventy-six men who lost their lives when the dirigible Akron and the blimp J-3 crashed off the New Jersey coast in 1933 were remembered in services on the shore at Beach Haven. Airplanes were ready to drop floral tributes where the airships sank.

Americans abroad also remembered the day. General John J. Pershing, commander of the AEF, was in France for services where 28,500 of America's soldiers sleep.

So Many Years Between--

Memorial Day Cryst

By Helen Welshimer

GREY rain, Memorial Day again! ... There are so many years Between the night you marched away And my quick-springing tears.

Sometimes it seems like yesterday Tell I've worn down the street. Beyond the throbs of vanished drums I hear their marching feet.

WHEN I come back from France, you said, We'll celebrate the day. You'll wear a pink dress, won't you, dear, Your hair my favorite way?

And lay a fire upon the hearth, For maybe I'll be cold; Let's dine, beloved, by candlelight, I'd like the candles gold!

YOU made a tryst you couldn't keep, As other men did, too. Not only had in khaki suits, But some in green and blue.

And other women keep this day As I guard it for you. I always curl my hair and wear The frock you asked me to.

$200,000 Will Be Paid in Federal Notes, Is Report

Rumor That Boy Had Already Been Returned Is Blasted

TACOMA.—(AP)—A source close to the Weyerhaeuser family disclosed Thursday that the $200,000 ransom—a 50-pound stack of federal reserve notes in the specified denominations—lay in a secret hiding place here Thursday awaiting the kidnapers of nine-year-old George Weyerhaeuser.

A noticeable relaxation of tension among law enforcement authorities and a report that two contact men had been named by the distracted family lent strength to a theory that the boy was safe and soon would be returned to his parents.

The source said the ransom money was arranged for only Wednesday, although the parents, young and wealthy Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Weyerhaeuser, Jr., have advertised repeatedly since Monday that they were ready to redeem their son.

Preparation of the ransom for delivery was believed to indicate that George was being held nearby and that he might be freed Thursday.

The report that the full amount of the ransom had been made ready for delivery to the extortionists lent strength to a rumor that there had been a contact with the kidnapers Wednesday and the parents were assured their son was alive and safe. The ransom note had threatened harm to the curly-headed boy if the press or authorities were informed of his capture.

Many Rumors
A discredited rumor was circulated that the boy already had been safely returned to his parents.

The rumor was believed by the unusual activity Wednesday night and early Thursday of the entire Weyerhaeuser family.

The parents were believed to have slipped out of their darkened mansion to join their three other children—Ann, 13, Philip, 10, and Elizabeth, 2—in the seclusion of a relative's home on Gravelly Lake, where they had been moved from their grand-mother's home.

Weyerhaeuser's brother-in-law, F. Rodman Titcomb, named by a family friend as one of the two men who probably will be intermediaries with the kidnapers, came out of the house with a man and woman who could not be definitely identified in the darkness.

Titcomb entered his own car and drove home. The couple, in the large Weyerhaeuser sedan, eluded newspaper men and disappeared in the direction of American Lake, exclusive summer home colony.

This reported departure of the Weyerhaeusers for the country followed a night series of automobile rides to and from relatives' homes which began long before the deadline set for the payment of the ransom—6:30 o'clock Wednesday night.

TUCKER PRISON FARM.—(AP)—Penal Superintendent Tom Cogbill announced Thursday the escape of Walter A. Bealle, 30, trusty convict guard who was given a life term for murder at Little Rock in 1931.

Bealle has been a trusty guard two years. His record in prison was described by Cogbill as good.

Clay Weatherly Is Killed When Car Goes Over the Wall

SPEEDWAY, Indianapolis.—(AP)—Kitty Pettito, hard-driving Los Angeles Italian, won the 500-mile auto. mobile race over a bumpy 2½ mile brick track at Indianapolis motor speedway Thursday.

SPEEDWAY, INDIANAPOLIS.—(AP)—Clay Weatherly, of Cincinnati was killed Thursday when his car crashed over the northwest wall while competing in the 500-mile automobile race at the Indianapolis motor speedway.

Weatherly's mechanic, Edwin Bradburn of Los Angeles, suffered a broken back. His condition was not believed serious.

Crowds Gather

INDIANAPOLIS.—(AP)—The multitude massed Wednesday night for the annual speed spectacle in the Indianapolis motor speedway, a modern counterpart of Rome's circus maximus.

Thrill seekers came in throngs for the 500-mile automobile race which, unless rain prevents, will start at 10 a. m. (central standard time) Thursday in the huge hippodrome that holds 150,000 spectators.

By airplane, by train and by motor they came to watch thirty-three drivers dare death in a dash for fame and prize money totaling $100,000. Three men—two drivers and a mechanic—died in preparation for the event, bringing the death toll of the twenty-six-year course to a total of thirty.

Speedway officials reported the greatest advance sale in the history of the race. Threatening weather failed to stop a last minute rush for what seats and parking spaces remained.

The forecast was for cloudy and cool weather ideal condition for establishing a new record. The present mark is 104.863 miles per hour, made last year by "Wild Bill" Cummings of Indianapolis. Cummings will try again Thursday for another victory.

Louis Meyer, the California comet from Huntington Park, with two victories here included in his long racing career, is another contender. He hopes to run his victory string to three. He won in 1928 and 1933. Fred Frame of Los Angeles, another former winner, is also in the field.

In principle there is no difference between those who want to do a half week's work for a full week's pay and those who demand full pay for doing nothing.

Liquors Vary in Value As Diet Benefits.

One of the most frequent questions sent to me of late has been whether use of alcoholic liquors tends to put on much weight, and whether they have any special value in the diet. People do not take alcoholic beverages with the idea of putting on weight. They are taken for their appetizing reaction, for the feeling of exhilaration that they give, and because they seem to be a pleasant way to quench thirst.

Alcoholic beverages usually are divided into malt liquors, wines, and distilled liquors. The various types differ in their contributions to increase weight and in the amount of alcohol they contain.

Malt liquors usually have less alcohol than do wines or distilled liquors, but they have a much higher amount of carbohydrates and protein. In many foreign countries, beers and ales are taken as part of the meal and help to provide the total number of calories required by the individual for the day.

In this country far too frequently these liquors are taken between meals. Because they add a considerable amount of calories to those usually taken, they tend to put on weight.

Light beer usually contains less carbohydrate and more alcohol than dark beer. Dark beer is made with more malt and hops per barrel, and therefore contains more alcohol and carbohydrates than ordinary beer.

Ale, pilsner, and stout differ from ordinary beer in using another type of yeast requiring higher fermentation and storage temperatures. These produce a different flavor.

These forms of malt liquors usually contain more alcohol and carbohydrates than ordinary beers. In general, a cup of half-pint of beer provides 150 calories as compared with 110 calories for lager beer and 100 calories for ale.

Munich and Pilsner beers are a little richer than ordinary beer in calories.

Wines vary according to the country in which they are produced, and also according to the kind of grapes used in production.

Wines usually contain two to four times the percent of alcohol found in beer, but they are much lower in carbohydrates and are usually taken in smaller quantities.

For example, a wine glass, or about one-tenth of a quart, of ordinary California wine provides 75 calories. Sweet wines, such as muscatel, port, and sherry, provide between 140 and 170 calories to the glass.

Champagne provides from 85 to 120 calories a glass. The amount of alcohol in such a glass of wine is 10 percent by weight as compared with 4 to 6 percent by weight of beers.

Whisky is proportionately much stronger in alcohol, running from 35 to 50 percent by weight and providing 50 to 75 calories for a small glass. Cocktails of all kinds vary according to materials put in them.

Current achievements of the American navy may fill peace-lovers with dismay, and lead some people to wonder just why we need so mighty a fleet, anyway; but when you lay those considerations aside and look at our fleet objectively, you have to hand it to it for a gorgeous show. This show—the dramatic and spectacular, spine-tingling aspect of the nation's floating defense system—is strikingly displayed in "Men and Ships of Steel," a collection of some 275 photographs of the American navy compiled and edited by Wayne Francis Palmer.

Mr. Palmer treats the American navy as a personality, a creation in which the ships and the men who operate them combine to form a definite, living organism with a character all its own.

His photographs show the individual units first—the midshipmen at Annapolis, the rookies at the training stations, the steel skeletons in the shipyards, the different vessels by themselves—and then they show the fleet functioning en masse.

And the result is enough to quicken the pulse of even the most peaceable of citizens.

Nothing quite exemplifies the ingenious and ruthless might of modern society as does a navy. True, the spectacle may frighten you with a grim hint of a dark age to come; but good or bad, hot or cold, there it is—matchless power, efficiency, and cold, dramatic beauty.

You'll find these pictures exciting. Published by Morrow, the book sells for $3.50.

Research Gives Hope for Stuttering Cure—Manual Habits Linked To Speech

So many parents ask me about stuttering, a subject that has occasioned more research possibly than processes for finding gold.

However in my rather stubborn insistence for years that right and left-handedness could not be dissociated from speech control, I seem to have been on the right track after all.

I wish all parents of stuttering children could read Dr. Wendell Johnson's article on "Stuttering" in the Mother's Encyclopedia published by "Parent's Magazine." It is impossible to give even a synopsis here. It seems, however, that intensive study and experimenting by speech-pathologists have reduced the guess-work.

The two halves of the brain working simultaneously together are ordinarily of different power, he explains. One is usually dominant and the other falls in line. When these are more nearly equal in controlling strength, there is more likelihood of stuttering.

Treatment Requires Caution Left-handed children changed to right, may develop stuttering, although this may have been done before speech developed at all. But this is only part of it. By developing certain hand and finger habits and exercises (right or left, according to cause, case-history and age) the correcting process is carried out in the scientific speech clinic.

Dr. Johnson finishes with the advice that notreatment be undertaken without a thorough examination by a "speech-pathologist" and adds that it is "so easy to do more harm than good." He emphasizes that what the parent should understand is that it is "now possible to prevent and cure stuttering."

There have been many treatments advocated by the laity—old-wives' stuff such as holding stones in the mouth, holding the breath, clicking the teeth between words, and so on—that any scientific statement is a relief.

Cure Takes Time.

In some cases where stuttering is not fixed, but a result of self-consciousness or fatigue or over-excitement, cures have been worked by such experiments perhaps. The real stutterer must go deeper for cure and no magic can be expected overnight, or in a month. This never method takes time.

Knowing the despair of so many parents, I know, too, the eagerness with which they scan the skies for any real sign of help or hope.

I have just one suggestion to make. Like everything else, treatment will be more effective if begun before the child gets too old. After eighteen there is less chance for things happening. But still do not despair. There may be hope then, too.

Bar Association Meets Thursday

McFaddin Will Be Toastmaster at Concluding Banquet

HOT SPRINGS, Ark.—(AP)—Attorneys from throughout the state gathered here Thursday for the two-day 38th annual convention of the Arkansas Bar Association. Roscoe R. Lynn, secretary and treasurer, said an attendance of approximately 400 is expected. Plans for a continued fight for an integrated bar will be discussed. Lynn said in a communication to all members urging their attendance at the meeting. He also said the question of reform in criminal practice will receive serious attention.

Several prominent speakers including Governor J. Marion Futrell, are listed for appearance before the lawyers, while various group conferences for discussion of law practice phases are included on the program. Election of officers, Friday morning, and a banquet that night concludes the gathering.

Assistant Attorney General Austin Miller of Washington, addresses the attorneys at Friday morning's session along with Judge Floyd E. Thompson of Chicago. Miller's talk will deal with criminal practice reform while Thompson will speak upon the subject of the lawyer's place in the world.

The address of Robert E. Wiley of Little Rock, president of the association, features Thursday morning's opening session. Four separate group meetings are planned in the afternoon on federal agencies, banking and building and loan associations, bankruptcy, taxation and improvement districts and personal injury practice. Governor Futrell will address the first group on co-operative acts of the legislature of 1935 and federal agencies. Reports of the secretary, treasurer and committees will be heard Friday. E. F. McFaddin of Hope will be toastmaster at the concluding banquet.

Collier and Bell Meet in Finals

Defending Champion to Meet Texarkana Player Thursday

TEXARKANA.—(AP)—Firing a brilliant 37, Curtis Collier, defending champion, smashed a four hole advantage over George Bell of Texarkana, Thursday in the first nine holes of play in the Arkansas Golf association tournament finals.

Collier is Favorite TEXARKANA, Ark.—(AP)—The defending champion, Curtis Collier of Fort Smith, and George Bell of Texarkana advanced to the finals of the Arkansas state golf tournament here Wednesday. Collier eliminated Collins Gaines Jr. of Texarkana, 6 and 4, while Bell overcame former champion Steve Creekmore of Fort Smith, 3 and 7.

The Fort Smith boy will be seeking to retain the championship he won last year at Little Rock when he tees off against the red-headed Texarkanian at 8:30 Thursday.

Leading one up as the afternoon round started, Collier played his best, despite Bell's having put 35, on the third nine to take a four up lead. He closed Gaines out on the 32d hole when he got a bogey five against the Texarkanian's six.

Creekmore trailed eight down at the end of the morning round when he shot an 86 against Bell's 78 and failed to show improvement in the afternoon. Creekmore three-putted 16 greens in 28 holes played.

Collier was favored to retain the crown against the town's dark horse, despite Bell's having disposed of three veterans in a row—Medalist J. K. Wadley, Arthur Temple and Creekmore.

The champion was playing every shot perfectly Wednesday after having shot ragged golf in earlier stages of the event. His drives, approaching and putting were excellent throughout the day despite weather which sent showers and then a deluge over the course.

Then came foundation cream on nose, chin, forehead and throat. When it had dried, on went a heavy coat of pinkish-beige powder that matched perfectly the girl's skin tones. It stayed on in layers and smudges until she was ready to leave the dressing room. Then the expert's deft fingers whisked off the surplus with a piece of clean cotton. She sallied forth

Summer Sweethearts

By Mabel McElliott © 1935, NEA Service, Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY KATHARINE STRYKHURST, beautiful 20, becomes acquainted with MICHAEL HEATHEROE, riding teacher, and acknowledges an unwilling attraction toward him. She is worried over the progress of an affair between ZOE PARKER, her best friend, and GIBBS LARKIN, of whom Zoe's parents disapprove.

Katharine and Dr. JOHN KAYE, friend of the Strykhurst family, take Zoe to a night club where the sea club with a notorious woman. Zoo threatens to kill herself.

That same night Michael is inveigled into taking SALLY MOON, local coquette, to the same place. Sally, arriving home late, informs her father that she and Michael are engaged.

Zoe drinks poison. Doctor Kaye asks to work to save her life.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XIX DR. KAYE spoke slowly, as one who is deadly weary. "We pulled through," he said. "She's going to get well."

Katharine crumpled against the window frame. Her creamy silk evening frock was wrinkled. Her eyes had great hollows under them. "Oh, John, thank God! You did it—we owe it all to you."

He shrugged his shoulders. "It was the least I could do."

"You mean because you took us to the club and she saw Gibbs there? Why, that was fate—"

"Not exactly," said John Kaye, rather dryly. "You see I happened to know he was one of the habitués... I hear gossip around town."

"It's taught me something," Katharine said, on a long, shuddering breath of exhaustion. "It's taught me never to interfere with human destiny. That, after all, is God's business..."

"If only we could all learn that lesson so early," said the man wryly. "Come along now. Time for you to get some sleep. Zoo is resting quietly."

"Does her mother know?" "I sent the nurse to tell her five minutes ago."

"Then I must have been asleep," marveled Katharine. "And I thought I'd never sleep again till I was sure. What weak creatures we humans are, John! You must have thought so when you came out of that room a moment ago and saw me dozing."

"I thought..." he paused and smiled that peculiarly winning smile of his. "Never mind what I thought."

Katharine went home again, tiptoeing through the quiet house, through the dew-soaked garden. The morning seemed new-minted for her special pleasure. It was a fresh gift. Never before had she realized how divinely sweet a morning could be.

Zoe's convalescence was slow. No one but John Kaye and Katharine knew what really had happened that terrible night. Some columnist from the city printed an item to the effect that "Gibbs Larkin took it on the chin from a certain prominent medic at the Blue Sky Club." Katharine, reading it, trembled. But there were no further repercussions from the incident. Gibbs evidently had not been seriously hurt and, wherever he was, he had the sense to keep out of Zoe's path now.

Later Katharine read his name in the sailing lists. Bound for Plymouth and Havre.

THE day came when Zoe was allowed to walk in the garden. She seemed thinner, more thoughtful than before. Her close brush with death had sobered her, and, in spite of dead white against her neck and face, looked fresh and healthy. "Later in the season, after the sun

When Auto Took to Air

In spite of the many improvements made in automobiles, aerial maneuvers seem a bit out of their class still. When the car driven by George Mickle hit a pipe line near Wilkes-Barre, Pa., it took to the air—and look what happened! In taking a nose drive through the roof of a nearby building only one of the three passengers was injured.

Willing to Compromise
A weary telegraph-agent, stationed many miles from anywhere in the Sudan, in the hottest part of summer wired his superior officer: "Please relieve me; can't stay here; am surrounded by lions, elephants and wolves."
The officer wired back: "There are no lions in the Sudan."
Whereupon the weary one replied: "Referring to my wire of yesterday, cancel wolves."—Dystander (London).

Memorial Day
Now in these troubled days once more
Unto our glorious dead we come!
Stillled are the bugle and the drum,
And stilled the hateful cannon's roar.
For as they died
Be ours the pride
Of steadfastness when shadows fall,
Let us be worthy of them all
Flowers on their graves and flags to wave
But little mean when storms assail
And dangers threaten, if we fail
To be as brave as they were brave,
Each silent mound
Of holy ground
Green gleaming 'neath the sun of May
Bids us to be as strong as they.
What is remembrance? Just a thought
A blossom or a falling tear
On one brief morning of the year;
Or is it something finer, caught
From here lives
Which long survives
To hearten, strengthen and inspire
When hearts grow faint and bodies tire?
Let us our pledge of faith renew!
Once more the call to duty sounds,
Beside our hallowed hero mounds,
Against the perils of the day
Let us be warriors—such as they.

ed with causing Litvinov's change of front.

Reports continue that Ambassador Jesse Straus at Paris will resign. Bullitt, a millionaire, could afford to take the job.

See Japan in "the Woodpile"

Many officials here also credit an inside story which says Japan is the bug under the chip in Italy's current war preparations against Ethiopia.

England, alarmed by expanding Japanese cotton operations in that African empire, is supposed to have influenced Mussolini—at least to the extent of looking benevolently upon his plans.

Japanese cotton raised in Abyssinia competes directly with Egyptian cotton and London has no relish for a Japanese intrusion into its sphere of influence around the Suez Canal. (This story is easier to hear here than to confirm.)

Ickes Cuts Loose Again

The next book by Secretary Ickes will be more sensational than his last, which fizzled. It will be called "Back to Work: The Story of PWA," and will roast former Budget director Lew Douglas, sometimes mentioned as a possible conservative presidential candidate for 1936, charging that Douglas opposed the $300,000,000 public works program after congress authorized it—on the ground that it wasn't mandatory.

By inference, Ickes will also take a few slams at Harry Hopkins and others in the administration who he feels held to unworkable theories and to what he considers the mistaken idea of large government spending without tangible return.

Reporter to Begin Contempt Sentence

NEW YORK.—(AP)—Martin Mooney, reporter for the New York American, lost his fight to escape a 30-day jail sentence and a $250 fine when Supreme Court Justice John F. Carew ordered him to start serving his sentence at once in Tombs prison.

Mooney was sentenced for contempt of court in refusing to disclose to the grand jury investigating vice and rackets the source of information he used in writing a series of newspaper articles on gambling in the city.

Mooney sought freedom in Supreme Court on writ of habeas corpus.

Death Ends Flying Waitress' Career

Put into a tailspin from which Friedel Braun, flying waitress, was unable to right it, her plane spun 1200 feet downward while her horrified dance looked on, struck the roof of a house at the edge of exclusive Westbury, L. Officers who arrested the minister 80 miles east of Orange said his car was "full of guns." He was jailed at Deridder, La. He said he was on his way there to submit to arrest.

O'Reilly had reported that when the minister led the raid on the night club he displayed a Texas Ranger's badge. The officer said he took two pistols from the minister. County officials did not press the charges against Eskridge and he was released.

Final Rehearsal for Senior Play

"Daddies" Will Be Presented at High School 8 p. m. Friday

The final rehearsal on the senior class play, "Daddies," will be held Thursday night.

The play will be presented at 8 p. m. Friday in the high school auditorium. Part of the plot is for a bachelor's club to adopt a war orphan.

Each member of the club orders a certain type of child. Upon arrival the children are opposite from the order. The inexperienced bachelors with their children supply entertainment worth while to witness.

The cast is: Robert Audrey, Paul Jones; James Crockett, Winfred Dabbs; Henry Allen, J. W. Harper; William Rivers, G. B. Martin; Nicholson Walters, Willard Anderson; Jan Temple, Beatrice Gordon; Mrs. Audrey, Floy Mae Wisener; Bobbette Audrey, Geneva Higginson; Madame LeVigne, Lynette McKemie; Katie, Pauline H. Jones; Parker, John Henry Putman.

The child cast: Lorry, Gene Young; Sammie, Nancy Eave Williams; Gus, Iva, Gus Enloe; mile, John C. Weaver; Francis, Sammie Segnar.

A posse armed with machine guns, tear gas and sawed-off shotguns was pressed into the search for the minister after O'Reilly was slain.

O'Reilly, who was married and had one daughter, had been an intimate friend of Eskridge.

Dixie Howell to Coach Mexicans

Former Alabama Star Has 2-Year Contract at U. of Mexico

LITTLE ROCK—(AP)—Millard (Dixie) Howell, star passing halfback of the University of Alabama, said here Wednesday he had signed a two-year contract to coach the University of Mexico football team.

Howell, now playing second base for the Birmingham Barons of the Southern association, said he would report for duty at Mexico, D. F., at the close of the baseball season.

"I think I'm mighty lucky to get a job like that my first year out of school," beamed Howell. "It's a great opportunity and you can bet I'll do my best to develop the game among the students there."

Howell said he "supposed" the University of Mexico would schedule additional football games in this country in future years.

"They played a couple of games in the United States last season, you know," Howell added, "and I suppose we will get some more games."

Howell was considered one of the greatest Southern passing backs in recent years, and his accurate tossing to Don Hutson, Alabama end, in the Rose Bowl game was credited with bringing victory to his team over Stanford University last New Year's Day.

Howell signed last spring with the Detroit Tigers of the American league, but during spring training was struck on the head with a pitched ball. He recovered and was sent to Birmingham for seasoning.

Dr. Dafoe Paid Birthday Tribute

Quintuplets' Physician Is Congratulated by Host of People

CALLANDER, Ont.—(AP)—Dr. Allan R. Dafoe was all but smothered under an avalanche of congratulations from all over America Wednesday as he observed his 52nd birthday anniversary the day after the Dionne quintuplets passed their first.

To Olivia Dionne and Elzira Dionne, the quintuplets' parents, the world sent few greetings.

Some congratulatory wires were addressed to the quintuplets, but most of the hundreds that continued to pour in were directed to Dr. Dafoe who delivered the quintuplets before the sunrise of May 28 a year ago.

Broadway stars, members of the Roosevelt cabinet, governors and leaders of industry sent congratulations. The names included Former Governor Alfred E. Smith of New York, Secretaries Ickes and Perkins of the cabinet, Speaker Byrnes of the house of representatives, and scores more.

The Dionnes had no part in Tuesday's celebration for the quintuplets. Although the minister of public welfare, David Croll, came up from Toronto especially to participate, and although Judge J. A. Vail and Dr. Dafoe, members of the board of guardians, joined the minister in speeches making, there was no voice in the entire proceedings from the other side of the road—the parents.

"We don't consider it an honor to be lectured by pure strangers to visit our children," said Olivia Dionne in one of his few formal statements.

Foreign Trade Not Favorable in April

WASHINGTON—(P)—An unfavorable balance in the nation's foreign trade in April—for the first time since August, 1933—was reported by the department of commerce.

Total foreign trade declined in April. Exports, which usually recede about six per cent from March, were 11 per cent smaller. Imports, which ordinarily fall about three per cent, were four per cent lower.

The excess of imports over exports the unfavorable balance, amounted to $6,217,000.

Exports in April were $164,350,000 compared with $184,000,000 in March and $19,417,000 in April, 1934.

Saturday Is PAY DAY for Hope Star Carrier Boys

Hope Star now employs 15 carrier boys. Each boy is his own merchant and should be paid each Saturday when he calls, as he is required to settle each Saturday night in full with the Hope Star for the papers he receives.

Carriers should not be expected to make repeated calls for collections, when the amount is so small, as the large number of deliveries they make, and the amount of time required in collecting from their customers does not permit this.

Hope Star deeply appreciates the patronage of every customer, and hopes they will be willing to make it a point to have the 10 cents ready for the carrier when he makes his first call.

Any failure on the part of the subscriber to pay is a direct loss to the young man. Although the amount is small in each individual case, very many such delays and losses could be a serious matter to the carrier that serves you.

After His Blue Eagle Perished

The Capitol dome still stood, but it seemed that the rest of the world had crashed about Donald R. Richberg, custodian of the Blue Eagle, as he walked down the Capitol steps after listening as the U. S. Supreme Court wrecked the NRA. Concealing his dismay, he is shown hurrying to an emergency conference with the president. Shortly after, Richberg, chairman of the NIRA, issued a plea to employers to keep codes in force.

Successive Garden Planting Advocated

One planting of most short-season vegetable crops will not provide the needed supplies of food for table use, much less leave any surplus for canning and drying, says Miss Helen Griffin, home demonstration agent.

If only a small surplus is provided for canning or table purposes, this small surplus will be used before next season's supplies are available; therefore, successive plantings are essential for producing ample supplies for both table use and canning needs.

Many staple food crops such as beans, tomatoes, peas, potatoes, sweet potatoes, corn, and other vegetables can be replanted throughout the season, and with proper cultural methods can be maintained so as to insure fresh vegetables during the entire summer and fall months. When one crop has completed its period of usefulness, some other vegetable can be found that is well suited to plant following removal of the preceding crop, Miss Griffin explained.

"Somebody to see you"

If everybody with something to interest you should come and ring your bell, what a nuisance it would be! Think of the swarming, jostling crowd, the stamping of feet on your porch and carpets!

Every day we know of many callers who come to see you. They never jangle the bell—they don't take up your whole day trying to get your attention. Instead, they do it in way that is most considerate of your privacy and your convenience. They advertise in your newspaper!

In this way you have only to listen to those you know at a glance have something that interests you. They make it short, too, so you can gather quickly just what you want to know. You can receive and hear them all without noise or confusion in a very few minutes.

In fairness to yourself look over all the advertisements. The smallest and the largest—you never can be sure which one will tell something you really want to know.
